

2022-2026 Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS) Update & Economic Recovery Plan

The DRAFT 2022-2026 TCC Comprehensive Economic Development Strategy (CEDS) & Economic Recovery Plan is ready for your review and feedback.

This document will help us create a stronger, more resilient economy in the TCC region, including examining how the region can recover from the economic impacts of the pandemic.

On January 27, 2022, The TCC Executive Board approved the 2022-2026 CEDS. We have now released the expanded CEDS & Economic Recovery Plan, which includes COVID-19 recovery-focused information and implementation action plans for priority strategies in the CEDS.

What's new from the previous version?

1	Expanded background chapter with a new section identifying the impacts of COVID-19 on the TCC region, including a review of health data, economic impacts, education impacts, and recovery-related federal relief revenues.	Pages 38-46
2	Detailed action plans that identify the specific steps, timing, and partners needed to make measurable progress on priority strategies.	Pages 67-83
3	Additional details in the appendices, including more economic data and a list of recovery resources .	Appendices A & D

We want to know:

What questions do you have about the pandemic-specific data? Related, what ideas do you have for pandemic-specific recovery strategies?

What's missing from the priority strategy action plans? What other ideas do you for how we can make progress on priority strategies?

What capital projects (in your community or subregion) should be reflected in the action plans?

Submit your comments by Friday, March 25th to:

Shelly Wade, TCC CEDS & ERP Stakeholder Engagement Lead, Agnew::Beck Consulting

907-242-5326 (call or text)

shelly@agnewbeck.com

Visit <https://www.tananachiefs.org/ceds/> to learn more and view copies of the draft.